? Remove the Executives group from the Strict protection preset security policy1. Preset security policies are policies that provide a centralized location for applying all of the recommended spam, malware, and phishing policies to users at once1. The policy settings are not configurable and are set by Microsoft based on best practices1.
There are two types of preset security policies: Standard protection and Strict protection1
. Standard protection is a baseline protection profile that's suitable for most user1s. Strict protection is a more aggressive protection profile for selected users who are high value targets or priority users1.
If you want to apply Policy1 to the Executives group, you need to remove them from the Strict protection preset security policy first. Otherwise, the preset security policy will take precedence over Policy1 and prevent it from being applied2.
To remove the Executives group from the Strict protection preset security policy, you can follow these steps2:

& rules >Alert policy.
? An alert policy consists of the following settings and conditions.
- Activity the alert is tracking. You create a policy to track an activity or in some cases a few related activities, such a sharing a file with an external user by sharing it, assigning access permissions, or creating an anonymous link. When a user performs the activity defined by the policy, an alert is triggered based on the alert threshold settings.
- Activity conditions. For most activities, you can define additional conditions that must be met to trigger an alert. Common conditions include IP addresses (so that an alert is triggered when the user performs the activity on a computer with a specific IP address or within an IP address range), whether an alert is triggered if a specific user or users perform that activity, and whether the activity is performed on a specific file name or URL. You can also configure a condition that triggers an alert when the activity is performed by any user in your organization. The available conditions are dependent on the selected activity.
? You can also define user tags as a condition of an alert policy. This results in the alerts triggered by the policy to include the context of the impacted user. You can use system user tags or custom user tags.
- When the alert is triggered. You can configure a setting that defines how often an activity can occur before an alert is triggered. This allows you to set up a policy to generate an alert every time an activity matches the policy conditions, when a certain threshold is exceeded, or when the occurrence of the activity the alert is tracking becomes unusual for your organization.
? If you select the setting based on unusual activity, Microsoft establishes a baseline value that defines the normal frequency for the selected activity. It takes up to seven days to establish this baseline, during which alerts won't be generated. After the baseline is established, an alert is triggered when the frequency of the activity tracked by the alert policy greatly exceeds the baseline value. For auditing-related activities (such as file and folder activities), you can establish a baseline based on a single user or based on all users in your organization; for malware-related activities, you can establish a baseline based on a single malware family, a single recipient, or all messages in your organization.
- Alert category. To help with tracking and managing the alerts generated by a policy, you can assign one of the following categories to a policy.
- Data loss prevention
- Information governance
- Mail flow
- Permissions
- Threat management
- Others
? When an activity occurs that matches the conditions of the alert policy, the alert that's generated is tagged with the category defined in this setting. This allows you to track and manage alerts that have the same category setting on the Alerts page in the compliance center because you can sort and filter alerts based on category.
- Alert severity. Similar to the alert category, you assign a severity attribute (Low, Medium , High, or Informational) to alert policies. Like the alert category, when an activity occurs that matches the conditions of the alert policy, the alert that's generated is tagged with the same severity level that's set for the alert policy. Again, this allows you to track and manage alerts that have the same severity setting on the Alerts page. For example, you can filter the list of alerts so that only alerts with a High severity are displayed.
- Email notifications. You can set up the policy so that email notifications are sent (or not sent) to a list of users when an alert is triggered. You can also set a daily notification limit so that once the maximum number of notifications has been reached, no more notifications are sent for the alert during that day. In addition to email notifications, you or other administrators can view the alerts that are triggered by a policy on the Alerts page. Consider enabling email notifications for alert policies of a specific category or that have a higher severity setting.

NEW QUESTION 300
SIMULATION - (Topic 5)
Please wait while the virtual machine loads. Once loaded, you may proceed to the lab section. This may take a few minutes, and the wait time will not be deducted from your overall test time.
When the Next button is available, click it to access the lab section. In this section, you will perform a set of tasks in a live environment. While most functionality will be available to you as it would be in a live environment, some functionality (e.g., copy and paste, ability to navigate to external websites) will not be possible by design.
Scoring is based on the outcome of performing the tasks stated in the lab. In other words, it doesn't matter how you accomplish the task, if you successfully perform it, you will earn credit for that task.
Labs are not timed separately, and this exam may have more than one lab that you must complete. You can use as much time as you would like to complete each lab. But, you should manage your time appropriately to ensure that you are able to complete the lab(s) and all other sections of the exam in the time provided.
Please note that once you submit your work by clicking the Next button within a lab, you will NOT be able to return to the lab.

Explanation:
? In the Microsoft 365 Defender portal at https://security.microsoft.com, go to Email & Collaboration > Policies & Rules > Threat policies > Anti-spam in the Policies section. To go directly to the Anti-spam policies page, use https://security.microsoft.com/antispam.
? On the Anti-spam policies page, click Create policy and then select Inbound from the drop down list.
? The policy wizard opens. On the Name your policy page, configure these settings:
- Name: Enter a unique, descriptive name for the policy.
- Description: Enter an optional description for the policy. When you're finished, click Next.
? On the Users, groups, and domains page that appears, identify the internal recipients that the policy applies to (recipient conditions):
- Users: The specified mailboxes, mail users, or mail contacts in your organization.
- Groups: The specified distribution groups, mail-enabled security groups, or Microsoft 365 Groups in your organization.
- Domains: All recipients in the specified accepted domains in your organization.
Click in the appropriate box, start typing a value, and select the value that you want from the results. Repeat this process as many times as necessary. To remove an existing value, click remove × next to the value.
For users or groups, you can use most identifiers (name, display name, alias, email address, account name, etc.), but the corresponding display name is shown in the results. For users, enter an asterisk (*) by itself to see all available values.
Multiple values in the same condition use OR logic (for example, <recipient1> or <recipient2>). Different conditions use AND logic (for example, <recipient1> and<member of group 1>).
- Exclude these users, groups, and domains: To add exceptions for the internal recipients that the policy applies to (recipient exceptions), select this option and configure the exceptions. The settings and behavior are exactly like the conditions.
When you're finished, click Next.
? On the Bulk email threshold & spam properties page that appears, configure the following settings:
- Bulk email threshold: Specifies the bulk complaint level (BCL) of a message that triggers the specified action for the Bulk spam filtering verdict that you configure on the next page (greater than the specified value, not greater than or equal to). A higher value indicates the message is less desirable (more likely to resemble spam). The default value is 7. For more information, see Bulk complaint level (BCL) in EOP and What's the difference between junk email and bulk email?.
By default, the PowerShell only setting MarkAsSpamBulkMail is On in anti-spam policies. This setting dramatically affects the results of a Bulk filtering verdict:
- MarkAsSpamBulkMail is O:nA BCL that's greater than the threshold is converted to an SCL 6 that corresponds to a filtering verdict of Spam, and the action for the Bulk filtering verdict is taken on the message.
- MarkAsSpamBulkMail is O:ffThe message is stamped with the BCL, but no action is taken for a Bulk filtering verdict. In effect, the BCL threshold andBulk filtering verdict action are irrelevant.
- Increase spam score, Mark as spam* andTest mode: Advanced Spam Filter (ASF) settings that are turned off by default.
The Contains specific languages andfrom these countries settings are not part of ASF.
- Contains specific languages: Click the box and select On oOr ff from the drop down list. If you turn it on, a box appears. Start typing the name of a language in the box. A filtered list of supported languages will appear. When you find the language that you're looking for, select it. Repeat this step as many times as necessary. To remove an existing value, click remove × next to the value.
- From these countries*: Click the box and select On oOr ff from the drop down list. If you turn it on, a box appears. Start typing the name of a country in the box. A filtered list of supported countries will appear. When you find the country that you're looking for, select it. Repeat this step as many times as necessary. To remove an existing value, click remove × next to the value.

When you're finished, click Next.
? On the Actions page that appears, configure the following settings:
- Message actions: Select or review the action to take on messages based on the following spam filtering verdicts:
 Spam
 High confidence spam Phishing
 High confidence phishing Bulk
- Retain spam in quarantine for this many days: Specifies how long to keep the message in quarantine if you selected Quarantine message as the action for a spam filtering verdict. After the time period expires, the message is deleted, and is not recoverable. A valid value is from 1 to 30 days.
- Add this X-header text: This box is required and available only if you selected Add X- header as the action for a spam filtering verdict. The value you specify is the header field name that's added to the message header. The header fieldvalue is always This message appears to be spam.
- Prepend subject line with this text: This box is required and available only if you selected Prepend subject line with text as the action for a spam filtering verdict. Enter the text to add to the beginning of the message's subject line.
- Redirect to this email address: This box is required and available only if you selected the Redirect message to email address as the action for a spam filtering verdict. Enter the email address where you want to deliver the message. You can enter multiple values separated by semicolons (;).
- Enable safety Tips: By default, Safety Tips are enabled, but you can disable them by clearing the checkbox.
- Enable zero-hour auto purge (ZAP): ZAP detects and takes action on messages that have already been delivered to Exchange Online mailboxes.
